Sample Living with Your Landlord Agreement for Alberta Renters

Why do you need a Living with Your Landlord Agreement?

A written agreement helps you to avoid problems. If a tenant shares living space with their landlord (for example, rents a bedroom in the landlord’s home), then the Residential Tenancies Act does not apply, so a written agreement is the best protection that a landlord and a tenant can have. In a room rental situation, neither the landlord nor the tenant has to follow the rules contained in the law. This means that if you are renting a room from your landlord, you may find yourself evicted with little notice. If you are a landlord, you may find it difficult to collect unpaid rent, or keep a deposit, without having a written agreement.

If you have a written agreement, then the rules and terms contained in the written agreement will apply to the renting relationship. An agreement adds certainty, and allows both the landlord and the tenant to know what is expected of them throughout the renting relationship.

What should a Living with Your Landlord Agreement say?

The attached sample Living with Your Landlord Agreement contains examples of the types of things that can be covered by an agreement. The sample Living with Your Landlord Agreement will provide you with a general idea of the terms that are important to include in your own written agreement, including rent, house rules, deposits, how to end the agreement, and how to deal with disputes. The sample Agreement contains some terms that may not apply to your situation, so this sample Living with Your Landlord Agreement should be adapted to fit your particular arrangements. Additional terms should be added if they are needed.

This sample room rental agreement ("Agreement") is made on the _____ day of _____________, 20___, between:

________________________________________________________________
(hereinafter referred to as the “Landlord”)

– and –

________________________________________________________________
(hereinafter referred to as the “Tenant”)

THE LANDLORD AND THE TENANT AGREE AS FOLLOWS:

1. Acknowledgement

   The Landlord and the Tenant both acknowledge that this Agreement is not governed by the Alberta Residential Tenancies Act.

2. Rental Accommodations

   A. The Landlord agrees to rent Accommodations (as defined below) to the Tenant in the property located at ____________________________, Alberta.

   Note: Many Landlords and Tenants have disputes about damages to the property. A way to avoid having disputes about property damage is to include an inspection report about the condition of the property when the Tenant moves in, and the condition of the property when the Tenant moves out. If there is deterioration in the condition of the property, then the Landlord can deduct expenses to repair the property damage from the deposit. If there is no deterioration in the condition of the property beyond normal wear and tear, then the Landlord cannot keep any of the deposit for property damage.

   Using the chart on the next page, the Landlord and the Tenant can inspect the property when the Tenant moves in and write down any damage that already exists in the property. Then, when the Tenant is moving out, the Landlord and the Tenant can again inspect the property, and write down the condition of the property at that time. It is important to have proof of the condition of the property in case there is a dispute over deductions made from the deposit for property damage. The Tenant may also want to consider taking pictures of the premises as the inspection is being carried out.
